

Environmental policy

1. Scope/Background

Weidmuller Limited and Klippon Engineering are both organisations operating in the UK market and are part of a global group, Weidmueller Interface GmbH & Co KG, a global manufacturer of electrical and device connectivity, automation and electronics products and provider of engineered solutions including empty and populated assembled enclosures and rail assemblies into the machinery building, energy and process industry markets.

The organisations are committed to the protection of the environment. Limiting any environmental impact by running our businesses to minimum possible and practical levels and considering the defined context of our organisations helps our employees, interested parties and society at large. At the same time, we will take into consideration wider topics such as the effect of Brexit on Environmental regulations. The protection of the environment, responsible use of energy and consideration of life cycle management is our collective responsibility towards society and future generations, which will reduce to a minimum the ecological impact of all our activities. Managers are expected to continuously be on guard against adversely affecting the environment and to seek ways to conserve natural resources.

2. Objectives

Weidmuller Ltd and Klippon Engineering
